Americans In Foreign Field Heaviest Sufferers

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Chicago, Sept. 21.—In a copyrighted interview in the Chicago Herald-Examiner today Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for President, pledged himself to work for the abrogation of the excess profits tax.

"This tax," Senator is quoted as saying, "tends to create unemployment and is a menace both to employers and employes of America." The senator is quoted further as saying that "taxation must be adjusted so as not to continue a penalty upon American initiative and production."

It will be recalled by THE CHINA PRESS readers in Shanghai that the necessity for the removal of the excess profits tax and other objectionable tax legislation was stressed more than any other subject that was called to the attention of the members of the Congressional party which recently visited the Far East.

OBNOXIOUS TAXES

Mr. Carl Seitz, it will be recalled, made an address to the visiting legislators at a luncheon at the American club, in which he went into the tax question in detail, and showed that American firms in China are laboring under a severe handicap because of obnoxious tax measures from which their chief competitors are exempt.

It will be gratifying to American resident in China to know that both candidates for the Presidential office have now declared themselves in favor of a readjustment of tax legislation.

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Marion, O., Sept. 21.—Senator Warren G. Harding, Republican candidate for President, in an address to Civil War veterans here today, warned his hearers that the League of Nations covenant as brought home from Paris by President Wilson is "full of ambiguities," and went on to say that it was ambiguities in the American constitution that led to the civil war.

TOO MUCH AMBIGUITY

He asked the veterans "how the people of the United States can ever consent to enter a new world compact containing a dozen ambiguities."

He asserted that Article Ten is a "reciprocal pledge on the league members to preserve the independence and nationality of forty-four nations, even to the point of going to war to achieve that end." Article Ten and its corollaries, the Republican candidate said, "clearly contemplate war if need be to make these preservations possible."

Union Men Decide Against Extremists

(Reuter's Wireless Service)

Paris, September 21.—In the course of a congress which has just been held in Marseilles at the headquarters of the Bouches-du-Rhone Department Union (says l'Homme Libre) the delegates of the dockers', naval reservists', tramway-workers', seamen's, munitioners' and jewellers' trade unions, representing the majority, affirmed their adherence to the Amiens resolution and repudiated the policy of the extremists.

A noteworthy motion was carried declaring the adherence of the working classes, the economic groups and the Socialists' party to the Internationale of Amsterdam under well defined conditions, and non-recognition of the Internationale organised by "the Pontiffs of Moscow."

Millerand Willing To Heed Call Of France To President's Chair

Premier Announces Program And Says He Will Bow To Will Of Poeple If They Want Him To Take Post

(Reuter's Wireless Service)

Paris, September 21.—The French press publishes the following statement by M. Millerand:

"I laid down in my speech of November 7, 1919 a policy of social progress, order, work and union, exemplified as regards foreign affairs by the integral application of the Treaty of Versailles—I defined the principles on which the Treaty rests, in agreement with our Allies—and as regards home affairs by the maintenance of the organic structure of the Republic, the restoration and development of all our economic forces, decentralisation, and in due course, the amendment which experience has shown to be necessary of our constitutional laws.

OUTLINES HIS POLICIES

For eight months, sustained by the confidence of Parliament, I have defended, methodically applied, and followed this policy, and I consider—and I have given my reasons—that I can better assist in carrying it out as President of the Council than in any other capacity.

"If, however, the majority of the two Chambers considers my presence at the Elysee to be preferable in order to uphold and pursue this national policy, and if they think, as I do, that the President of the Republic, though he should never stand for any party, can and must stand for a fixed policy, applied in strict collaboration with his Ministers, then I shall not seek to evade the representation of the nation as its President."

CRISIS IS PASSED

Paris, September 20.—M. Millerand's announcement that he will accept the candidacy for the Presidency if a majority of the two Chambers so desire, has solved the Presidental crisis. Both the Senate and the Chamber regard his election as a foregone conclusion and no other candidate has been officially mentioned.

The favorites for the Premiership are M. Jonnart and M. Briand.

Italy's Reds Are Blocked By Position Of Premier

(Reuter's Service)

Rome, Sept. 19.—It appears that the Red peril in Italy has been averted, and an agreement, which can only be regarded as a signal victory for the workers, has been reached, owing to Signor Giolitti's insistence upon supporting the men's claims.

The agreement provides for increases of wages ranging from 60 to 80 percent, for the metallurgical workers, the joint control of factories by workers and employers, and the evacuation of the factories by the workmen.

Signor Giolitti has issued an official statement, declaring that the manufacturers have agreed to the dual control of factories on the ground that the workers have affirmed that their object was to improve the disciplinary relations between workers and employers, and increase the output.

JOINT COMMITTEE

The Premier adds that, consequent upon this agreement, a joint committee is established composed of six manufacturers and six workers. The committee will draw up proposals which will be submitted to Parliament as a bill to reorganise industries on the basis of labor participation in their technical, financial and administrative control.

In the event of subsequent disagreement in any establishment the agreement provides for the appointment of a committee of two masters and two men to decide what steps are necessary.

Rome, Sept. 20.—A conference at the Ministry of the Interior between delegates of employers and employed has agreed that the new wages scale shall be retro-active, and date from July 17, but the payment of the wages sought by the workmen for the period during which they occupied the factories is excepted.

NORMAL CONDITIONS

Il Messagero learns that the Confederation of Labor has ordered the workmen to leave the occupied factories and resume work under normal conditions. It has also given an assurance that order shall be respected.

London, Sept. 21.—The Times Milan correspondent states that although the Confederation of Labor has ordered the workers to evacuate the commandeered factories, a state of turbulence continues at Turin.

Another chemical factory was seized on the 18th after a struggle, while a fight between metal-workers and carabineers occurred at Brescia.

MINERS REFUSE TO LET BOARD DECIDE WAGES

Threat Of Increase In Price To Consumers Does Not Move Men

HORNE LEFT WAITING

Minister Is Ignored While Union Leaders Confer In Private

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 20.—After the conference between Sir Robert Horne and the Miners' Executive had adjourned for tea, the latter, instead of resuming the conference, met in private for two hours at the Board of Trade, and subsequently dispersed without meeting Sir Robert Horne, although he was waiting for them.

It is generally assumed that the whole matter will be placed before the National Conference of Miners' Delegates at their meeting tomorrow, when the Executive will put upon the delegates the responsibility of deciding the character of future action.

REJECT ARBITRATION

Later.—The official report of today's Coal Conference shows that Sir Robert Horne again made an eloquent appeal to the miners to accept the decision of an impartial tribunal in regard to wages. The miners' representatives, however, persisted in their refusal of this proposal, declaring that the Government had all the facts in its possession, and consequently was itself in a position to decide.

They declared that unless the wage demand was conceded, it was impossible for them to recommend the continuance of work at tomorrow's conference of miners' delegates.

ARGUES IN VAIN

Sir Robert Horne reminded the miners of the great interest they professed in the consumer getting cheaper coal, and argued that the refusal of an impartial tribunal, followed by a strike, would result in the consumer having to pay more.

Sir Robert Horne advanced other arguments, but all in vain.

China Used Egypt's Lost Art 200 Years Ago, Is Discovery

That Egypt's lost art of embalming was not forgotten by the Chinese 200 years ago was demonstrated yesterday when the body of a woman, said to be the grandmother of the Ta Tsing Hanlin, Chow Ti-san, of Shanghai was disinterred at the West of the Lung Hua Station.

The ancient grave of the Chow family has been standing in a cotton field near the railway depot for about 200 years. Recently the descendants of the Hanlin decided to remove the burial place and the bodies were exhumed.

Yesterday, workmen began to exhume the remains of Mrs. Chow. When the casket was opened the contents were all in a state of good preservation. The gorgeous dress and head wear had merely lost a little of its brilliance, while the countenance appeared to be that of a woman who passed away but recently.

A huge crowd gathered round the scene. A great deal of damage was done to the cotton field which was near its harvest.

PITCHED BATTLE FOUGHT BETWEEN IRISH FACTIONS

Armored Car, Rifles And Bombs Are Used In Fight At Enniskerry

(Reuter's Service)

London, September 20.—Details of the fight between constabulary and men who were drilling at Enniskerry, in Wicklow, show that the affair resolved itself into a pitched battle.

The authorities, upon receiving information that certain land was being used for drilling purposes, concentrated a large force of troops in the district, with the aid of a fleet of twelve motor-lorries.

The fight was short but sharp. The soldiers flung bombs and used their rifles, and were supported by an armored car.

RAID FOR ARMS

A big raid for arms by Sinn Feiners is reported from County Tyrone. Several hundreds of men, conveyed in a fleet of commandeered motor-lorries, swept the districts of Gortin and Plumb Bridge, raided a hundred Protestant houses, and carried off all arms they found in the name of the Irish Republic. The raid lasted for several hours.

New York, Sept. 21.—An Associated Press message from Dublin reports that an auxiliary force of police last night wrecked the town of Balbriggan in retaliation for the killing of policemen. Two civilians were killed and several injured.

RAILWAYS TIED UP

London, Sept. 21.—A serious development has occurred in the Irish munitions dispute. The Great Northern Railway of Ireland has suspended traffic from Dundalk to Enniskillen, making 568 miles of three Irish trunk lines without passenger traffic. The curtailment, which is a direct result of the refusal of the men to transport ammunition, deals a heavy blow to Irish trade.

MERCHANT MARINE ACT

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 20.—The belief is expressed in administration circles that President Wilson has decided to delay the carrying out of Article 34 of the Merchant Marine Act, terminating commercial treaties, because he does not believe that Congress appreciated its full significance.

The measure is awaiting the reconsideration of experts.

It is said that President Wilson's refusal to recognise this article will not affect the remainder of the Act.

ELECTRICAL FIRE BALL IS SEEN IN SHANGHAI HOME

Phenomenon Is Witnessed By Hanbury School Teacher And His Wife

ENTERS THROUGH WINDOW

Blazing Sphere Strikes Wall, After Passing Between Persons In Room

Mr. W. C. Divers, an assistant master at the Thomas Hanbury School for Boys, and his wife undoubtedly narrowly escaped death or serious injury yesterday afternoon when they witnessed in their home one of the most remarkable electrical phenomenons ever recorded in Shanghai.

"A living ball of fire came through the window," said Mr. Divers in telling of the happening at their residence which is at No. 35 Darroch Road.

IN THUNDER STORM

"We had been having tea and had just finished," he went on, "when there came clap of thunder like an explosion and immediately afterwards the ball of fire entered the room. It passed between my wife and myself and struck the opposite wall of the room from which it ricochetted through a door into a front room and out through another window."

Mr. Divers said he followed the course of the ball of fire and saw it next strike against a dead wall near which strings of Chinese joss paper had been hung up by occupants of a nearby Chinese dwelling. This paper at once ignited and as it blazed up Mr. Divers says the ball of fire carried itself along a distance of about twenty feet rising in its course until it struck and shattered the chimney of a house. It then disappeared.

ESCAPED INJURY

Mr. Divers said that neither he nor his wife felt any ill effects after their experience, which he admitted caused them the utmost alarm when it happened. An examination of the wall inside of the Divers' dining room against which the ball of fire struck revealed only a slight burned mark, he said, and no other damage was done to the house.

The ball of fire, Mr. Divers said, was glowing brilliantly and was about the size of a golf ball. The window through which it entered faces in the direction of Hongkew Park. At the time the incident occurred the skies over that portion of town were lowering as though a storm was about to break, but it was not raining.

The entire occurence happened in the space of probably not more than a minute of time.

Anti-Japanese Law In U.S. Would Be Fatal Move, Declares Kaneko

AIRMEN SUPPLY BESIEGED FORT WITH MUNITIONS

(Reuter's Service)

London, Sept. 20.—The garrison of Kufa, in Mesopotamia, has been beleaguered for some weeks past, but it is inferred that it is satisfactorily supplied with necessaries and ammunition by air, for, according to a War Office communique, the latest aerial reconnaisance ascertained that a request was only being made for tobacco and cigarettes. This request was conveyed by a sign painted on a roof.

The truculent Sheikh Dhari has been located 25 miles north-west of Bagdad with his following and a thousand camels. An aerial attack on this force inflicted a considerable number of casualties.

In north-west Persia, the Persian Cossacks report that a Bolshevik aeroplane has dropped four bombs on Imamza.

JAPANESE TO REMOVE MOST OF SIBERIAN ARMY FORCE

Only Troops Necessary To Imperial Defense Will Be Left, Says Hara

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, September 21.—The Premier, in the course of a speech at today's conference of Prefectual Governors, reviewing the foreign and the internal situation, said that, though the war was over, the causes of International and economic struggles remained.

Japan's problems had hitherto been confined to the Orient, but post-bellum conditions had dragged her into the vortex of international competition, markedly increasing her responsibility and expanding her national expenditure.

SAGHALIEN QUESTION

Referring to Saghalien, the Premier said that Japan had occupied the north of the island, pending the establishment of a legitimate and competent government in Russia.

With regard to Shantung, the Japanese Government was prepared to negotiate with China if approached by the latter, but up to the present China had refused to consider the proposal for negotiations.

With reference to America, nothing definite could be said with regard to anti-Japanism in California until the present negotiations had been completed.

U.S. To Withdraw Troops From Haiti Soon---Colby

(Reuter's Service)

Washington, Sept. 20.—In a statement announcing that the "benevolent purpose" occupation of Haiti is nearing its attainment, Mr. Bainbridge Colby, the Secretary of State, says the United States hopes to withdraw and leave the island's administration to the unaided efforts of the Haitians when that purpose has been fully achieved.

He declared that the relations of the United States with Haiti should not be misrepresented, even under the temptations which the political campaign presents of irresponsible utterance and conscious unversicity.

DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

Replying directly to Senator Harding's charges that the Administration is conducting unconstitutional warfare in Haiti and San Domingo, Mr. Colby defended the policy of occupation which, he maintained, was guided by no thought except to help the people.

The representative of the Dominican Junta in the United States has issued a statement protesting against intervention, which, he declares, was never sought, and adding that the Dominicans have never ceased to ask for their freedom and sovereignty.

DANIELS IN ANSWER

Mr. Josephus Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, in answer to the charges brought by Senator Harding, declared that the United States was administering affairs in Haiti and San Domingo in pursuance of treaty obligations, with a single end in view, and he thought the administration was deemed satisfactory by the inhabitants, who up to the present had been ruled by bandits.

California Situation Cause Of Serious Discussion And Of Considerable Alarm Among Nippon's Editorial Writers

(Reuter's Service)

Tokio, September 21.—The Press is taking increased interest in the Californian situation as the result of Governor Cox's and Senator Harding's speeches.

The general tone of the press is one of watchful waiting, hoping for the elections to pass without making the situation worse and removing it from the hands of the diplomats. The more extreme section of the press says that, while the situation is singularly delicate and fraught with possibilities, the question deserves the most serious attention in order to avoid approaching the stage where the two powers, facing one another across the Pacific, cannot avoid a collision.

REPRESENTATIVE TO U. S.

Viscount Kaneko, President of the Japan-America Society, who has been named as special representative to America, in the course of an interview, said that, if an anti-Japanese bill were passed in America, it would be "the death-knell of the best feelings of the two nations, touching the amour propre of every citizen of Japan, big and little."

Sacramento, Sept. 20.—Governor Stephens, of California, addressing the Republican State Convention, declared that the Republican party stood for no further immigration of aliens who were not eligible to become citizens, and the so-called "Gentlemen's Agreement" and the Treaty with Japan must be superseded by a treaty which would define the right of Americans to say who should and who should not come among them.

Mr. Samuel Shortridge, a candidate for the Senate, said the Republican party stood for stopping Asiatic immigration, including that of Japanese, and proposed an international understanding by which the doors of the Pacific would be locked against "this undesirable race."

CUSTOMS HOUSE THREATENED BY N. Y. BOMBERS

Revenue Collector Is Warned That Dynamiters Are Forming New Plot

(Reuter's Service)

New York, Sept. 20.—A postcard, containing a warning that an attempt will be made tomorrow to blow up the Customs House, after the Wall Street explosion on Thursday, has been received through the post by Mr. William Edwards, Collector of International Revenue. It is signed "Citizen," and states that the explosion will take place at two o'clock.

Mr. Edwards said that a preliminary investigation showed that there was no plot, and he was inclined to regard the warning as a hoax.

New York, Sept. 20.—Following upon the recent Wall Street explosion, statements have been made by two men, one of whom claims that he saw the "death wagon" which carried the explosives in front of his office at 10:30 o'clock on Thursday morning, while the other affirms that he saw three men running from the scene before the detonation, and heard cries of "Hurry," "Beat it," and "Get out."

The man Fischer, an ex-employe of the French High Commissioner's office, has been virtually eliminated as a suspect after eight hours' questioning, and the warning which he sent to various friends is regarded as a hoax. Brallowsky has been released from custody.

Ultimatum Sent To Canton By Gen. Chen Chiung-ming; Tsen Told To Vacate Seat

Conflicting Reports Are Received About Fall Of Waichow; Navy Remains Constitutional; More Kwangsi Battalions Called

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, September 20.—According to a report from one of the Government's agents in Swatow General Chen Chiun-ming of the Canton party sent a final despatch to Mo Yung-hsin after he captured Ho Yuan. It was to be following effects: (1) That the Kwangsi troops leave the territory of Kwangtung within two months time. (2) That Mo Yung-hsin, Yang Yung-tsi, Li Keng-yuen, Lin Hoo, Sheng Hung-ling, and Liu Chi-lu be dismissed from their offices and ranks. (3) That Tsen Chun-suan must leave Canton before the 10th of October. The above demands are claimed to be based on the public will of the people in Kwangtung. The Kwangsi leaders were requested to give a reply within five days.

The President's Office was in receipt of a telegraphic report on the 18th inst. from its agent at Amoy to the effect that the Kwangtung and Kwangsi troops had been in the thick of fight at Waichow since Sept. 15, and that the Kwangsi troops were more affected than the other. The report further states that when Chiun-ming's troops had already occupied two-thirds of the important place of Waichow.

NAVY UNCHANGED

Canton, Sept. 21.—In the course of an interview, published in the Canton Times, an important naval officer states that the Chinese Navy, now at Canton, will remain Constitutionalist and does not intend to depart from the purpose for which the navy came to the south.

He denied the report that the Navy was holding an important personage as hostage against the early payment of arrears of pay; the report of the surrender of the assassin of Admiral Chin Pei-kwang and of an accomplice in the murder and other rumors. The officer said that the Navy were still seeking the assassin.

Sixteen battalions of Kwangsi troops have arrived at Canton from Kwangsi via Wuchow. General Tan Hoh-ming, the Military Governor of Kwangsi, is personally leading fifty battalions into Kwangtung. His headquarters are at Wuchow.

Canton, Sept. 20.—Traffic between Canton and Huengshan has not yet been resumed. Disturbances are going on at Siu-laam. Kongmoon is still under martial-law as bandits are threatening the city.

The report that Waichow has fallen is untrue. The Administrative troops still hold the city.

The Military Government, informs Reuters correspondent that there is no truth in the reports that the Chinese Navy in South China is accusing General Mu Yung-hsien of the murder of Ching Pei-kwang more than two years ago and that General Li Kan-yuan is demanding the Civil Governorship of Kwangtung on condition that he should help General Mu Yung-hsien. General Li Kan-yuan is now at Sheklung, where he is establishing his headquarters.

Many persons are storing their valuables at Shameen. Foreign firms are charging from 3 to 7 dollars per case per month for storage.

General Lu Yung-ting has formally announced his support of General Mu Yung-hsien in the present conflict.

Japanese To Remove Most Of Siberian Army Force

The authorities hoped and trusted that a satisfactory settlement would be reached before long in view of the traditional friendly relations between the two powers.

PREMIER EXPLAINS

Tokio, September 22.—According to fuller reports, published in this morning's papers, of the Premier's statement at the Conference of Prefectural Governors yesterday, Mr. Hara declared that the Japanese forces were being withdrawn from all parts of Siberia except those where their presence was necessitated by considerations of imperial defense.

The Government, he said, were devoting great efforts to improving the financial situation, and he thought a favorable reaction was in sight.

In conclusion he declared that the Government was bound to exercise surveillance over popular thought, and to guard against the growth of dangerous tendencies.

TO RELEASE RAILWAY

Vladivostok, September 21.—General Takagangi, the Japanese Chief of Staff, stated today that it was not known at present whether further districts besides Habarovsk would be evacuated but that this point would soon be decided. He said that the Habarovsk-Nikolsk railway had been handed over to the Russians immediately after the evacuation.

All material, including the Amur flotilla, had been returned to the Russians conditionally. The evacuating troops were returning to Japan and would be replaced by other troops, but the numbers of the relieving troops were at present unknown. The reason for the evacuation, the General stated, was to strengthen the friendship between Japan and Russia.

Normal passenger service between Nikolsk and Habarovsk has been reopened. The line had been closed since the events of April last.

Habarovsk has elected three Communists, three Social-Revolutionaries and one Constitutional Democrat as representatives to the Vladivostok (Temporary) Assembly.

Mid-Autumn Festival Will Be Observed

The coming Mid-Autumn Festival that falls on September 26, next Sunday, is to be generally observed the following day in Shanghai as a holiday. It is announced that the Foreign Exchange banks will be closed through the day Monday and the Chinese Post Office will be open only through the hours observed on holidays. The parcel and money order offices of the Chinese Post Office will be closed through the day.

The Frawley Company

That ever-popular Cohen comedy, "It Pays To Advertise" was the piece de resistance offered by the Frawley company at the Lyceum last evening and a goodly crowd was out to see the jolly little fantasy, despite the threat of the rain god.

There is little to be added to what has already been written concerning the general excellence of "Uncle Tim's" band of strolling players, save to state that they are at their best in these rollicking American serio-comics, none of which should be missed by local theatergoers.

The lust for buying the pretty things one sees in the versatile advertisements in the newspapers and magazines offered George Cohen an opportunity to write a mighty clever play: and the lust for satisfying his audiences has given Frawley and his associates chance to interpret it. Each department of the work is spendidly done.

Tonight, by request, "Polly With A Past" will be repeated—probably for the last time in Shanghai. Don't miss it!

Motorcycle Cases Before Two Courts

As the result of active steps that have been taken by the Shanghai Municipal Police to enforce new conditions that have come into effect since July 1 in connection with licenses for motorcycles four defendants were heard yesterday in the British Police Court and in the American Consular Court, two in each court.

The new regulations require that license numbers be carried front and back on motorcycles so they may be read from either direction. In all four cases the defendants, pleading ignorance of the new regulations, explained that they now have complied with them. In the two cases in the British Police Court before Magistrate G. W. King fines of $3 were imposed on the two defendants, Messrs. K. Mackenzie and A. J. Mooney. Charges against Messrs. G. A. Fitch and M. Stephens, the two defendants heard in the American Consular Court, were dismissed by U. S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl.

Advertising Club To Show How A Publicity Campaign Should Be Conducted Here

The Advertising Club of China considers that tinned milk either in the condensed or evaporated form, presents the most ideal problem for nationwide publicity of any product now marketed in China, and proposes to solve the difficulties which would confront an advertising manager were he faced with the prospect of educating the great population of China to its uses.

The Club has just issued and circulated a small booklet which bears the title "A Tin Can" and contains the conditions in detail of a company starting to manufacture and sell a line of milk products in Shanghai. All the terms are stated even to the amount of paid-in capital, the profits anticipated, the distribution, packing casing.

DETAILS OF PLAN

The whole problem is imaginary and certain of the conditions are not feasible. However, this does not effect the general principles of the advertising material produced, for, while it may not be possible to maintain a herd of cows on pasture land close by Shanghai, it is very possible that a manufacturer of paints, drugs, canned goods or some similar line could import his raw materials and convert them into the finished article in a factory right here in China.

It is with this purpose in view that the Club has chosen to work out the solution of a hypothetical case in marketing a new brand of goods in China and have chosen milk products as offering a typical example.

Their method of working out the answer is rather unique and entails a large amount of labor on the part of members. The work will extend over the entire year taking in nine full meetings, at each of which there will be considered a certain phase of the campaign. The first meeting will take place next week and the members will be given a talk on the "inter-relationship" between the manufacturing, selling and advertising departments of the company. Mr. S. Percy Westaway, Advertising Manager of the Standard Oil Company, will address the meeting, following which there will be a general discussion by all the members present of the points brought out in the talk.

NEXT MEETING

The next meeting will be held the latter part of October and it will concern itself with the selection of a name, brand, label, chop, and container for the milk. This will be prepared in advance and an explanation of the reasons why such and such a name or label was selected will be given.

The third meeting of the year in November will have to do with the outline of the whole advertising campaign, and the fourth meeting will see a budget prepared which will be based upon the plan as set forth in the third meeting.

Given these preliminary conditions, it will then devolve upon various members of the Club to prepare actual designs for the various phases which the publicity campaign covers. These may take in such activities as posters, newspaper advertisements, window displays and any other medium which the members of the Club may decide are necessary to the establishing of the name and trade mark.

The Club is throwing open its meetings to all those business men in Shanghai who may be interested in this subject and extends a cordial invitation to have them attend the meetings. The first will be held on Thursday, September 30, at 8:45 p.m. in the Y.M.C.A., 120 Szechuen Road.

Copies of the booklet which is printed in both Chinese and English, can be secured by writing to the Secretary, Advertising Club of China, 4 Yuen-ming-yuen Road.

On Making Sure

There is nothing like making sure where one's health is concerned. Good health is the best guarantee that Life shall be a success. Now it is well-known that digestive disorders are the cause of more cases of ill-health than any other class of ailment. The digestive system is so extensive, so complex and so hard-worked, that its liability to derangement is not astonishing. Happily, however, many digestive ailments can be easily remedied. Happily, too, many digestions need never go wrong. You can make reasonably sure that your digestion will not fail you, even under trying conditions, if you get into the excellent way of taking Beecham's Pills. This "Wonderful Medicine"—as it has been called—does really work wonders with the digestive system. Beecham's Pills impart tone to the stomach, regulate the action of the liver and kidneys and gently stimulate the bowels into healthy activity. Get into the habit of making sure. Have recourse to Beecham's Pills at the first sign of digestive trouble. Make sure of your health by taking

Oak Flooring WHY?

OAK FLOORING costs only a trifle more than a high-class carpet. A carpet, no matter how good the quality may be, wears out in a few years—an oak floor will last a life-time and longer.

OAK FLOORING is hygienic. It does not harbour dust and germs as does a carpet. It is easily cleaned and always looks new.

A WELL POLISHED oak floor is infinitely superior in appearance to an ordinary carpet.

TO INSTAL oak flooring costs from Tls. 25 to Tls. 40. per fong (100 sq. ft.), according to the design selected

WE SUPPLY OAK FOR FLOORING, WAINSCOTING, PANELLING, ETC., ETC., KILN-DRIED AND QUALITY GUARANTEED

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. This supervision costs you nothing, and we prefer to do this for you.

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions in China.

Normal Training School Of Y.M.C.A. Has Opening

The Normal Training School of the Young Women's Christian Association of China, located at 37 Kinchow Road, opened yesterday for the first semester of the year's work. The new buildings, parts of which have been in use by the school since last January, are fully equipped for the students' use. The enrollment includes fourteen seniors and thirty juniors, which group is representative of ten provinces of China. Miss Alice O. Huie, Miss Hester F. Carter, Dr. Clara A. Sargent, Miss Carolyn A. Huie, Miss Marion Beers, Miss Phoebe Ho, Miss Way Lan-chang, and Miss Han Mei-ying, office secretary, compose the school staff.

The opening of the school this year was marked with unusual enthusiasm. Yesterday at a reception given by the staff of the training school to members and staff of the China National Committee and the group of new secretaries who arrived from the United States last week, the members of the junior and senior classes were present. The senior class executed several drills and folk dances as their part of the afternoon's entertainment. Tonight the junior class will be entertained by the seniors according to the school custom of giving a "welcoming party" for the new students.

BUILDING INSPECTED

In the course of the afternoon the new secretaries and members of the China National Committee made an inspection tour of the new buildings. The modern equipment and conveniences of the dormitories and the new apparatus of the gymnasium met with the hearty approval of those who saw them for the first time.

The members of the school staff and the students look forward to the most eventful year the school has yet seen, as the new equipment will make possible many lines of activity which in former years they have been unable to accomplish.

Following the reception and dances by the seniors, the new secretaries were introduced and announcement was made of their assignments for the year. Among those who will remain in Shanghai are Miss Helen Thoburn, who will take the position of executive secretary of the publication department in the national office; Miss Eleanor Kitchen who is appointed to the staff of the training school; Miss Lina Willis who has already begun her work as secretary to Miss Grace Coppock, general secretary and Miss Hilda Murray who is appointed a member of the office staff of the national headquarter.

GOING TO PEKING

Those who will attend the Peking Language School are: Miss Rachel Brooks, Miss Bessie M. Gleason, Miss Helen Rysdorp, and Miss Maude Streeter. This group will leave Shanghai for Peking on Monday. Miss Mary Willis and Miss Katcharine Vaughn are appointed to the Canton Language School. Those appointed to the Nanking Language School include, Miss Maude Klatt, Miss Elizabeth Morrison, Miss Celia Moyer, Miss Ethel Scribner, Miss Margaret Strch and Miss Ethel Joy Williams.

Monument To Wright Brothers Erected In France

Commemorating the famous flight made by the Wright brothers at Le Mans, France, in 1908, a huge shaft in honor of the American inventors of the airplane was recently unveiled in the French city. The monument was presented to the city of Le Mans by Commodore L. D. Beaumont, of Dayton, Ohio. The shaft is forty feet high and is surmounted by a figure symbolic of the early struggles of the Wright brothers for mastery of the air.

NANYANG STUDENTS VOTE FOR LEADERS

In line with practice in American schools and universities in marking out individual students who have excelled in various lines, Nanyang University yesterday held a competition among students in which ballots were cast to determine leaders in various forms of activity.

It was regarded as unfortunate that Nanyang as yet is not a co-educational institution so ballots that would bring to the fore feminine attainments could not be cast. As a result of the voting, however, the leading athlete, the best chess player and the premier baseball player were designated in the voting.

Mr. Ning Shu-fang was elected as the school's most distinguished athlete. To Mr. Koh Yin was awarded honors as the leading chess expert and Mr. Shen Kuo-chuan was voted the leading exponent of baseball.

German Paper Suits Unfit For Wear

They Stick To One In Hot Weather And Have To To Be Removed In Pieces

New York, August 16.—Walter H. Burton, a Chicago woolen merchant, who returned from Europe last week, said yesterday at the Waldorf-Astoria that the paper suits made in Germany, which were apparently being boosted by certain officials of the Administration in Washington, would be of no use in this country on account of the heat.

"During the long war," Mr. Burton continued, "the Germans had to fall back upon all kinds of materials to make clothing out of as they had no wool or cotton to make cloth. Their manufacturers did wonders with paper. They made shirts, underwear of all descriptions, collars, caps, sheets, towels and bed coverings. The tablecloths in the hotels when I was in Germany three weeks ago were nearly all made of paper except at the Atlantic Hotel in Hamburg, which is owned by the Hamburg-American Line, and has been furnished from the supplies that were intended for the ships.

"The paper suits and underwear are all right to keep people warm in cold weather, but they are very trying in the Summer, even in Germany, where the temperature is much lower than in New York and there is less humidity.

"The underwear and the shirts stick to one when they become soaked through with perspiration and have to be removed in pieces. The suits look O. K. until the rain comes, and then good-bye clothes. They shrink up and are likely to fall apart suddenly in a manner that causes confusion to the wearer. People who wear these paper suits have to take to shelter directly a shower comes on and wait until it is over, which might mean several hours."

Mr. Burton said he saw good serviceable suits sold retail in London in the Parliament, and other tailoring establishments for the equivalent of $14 in American currency. He added that the duty on low grade woolens in the United States was about 35 percent so that allowing for duty, freight and profit the suits could be imported and retailed here at $30 each for the coming Winter. The fit was not quite the regulation Fifth Avenue style, he added, but with a little alteration would be quite presentable and would wear well for business purposes.

MONGOLIANS SEEK SELF-GOVERNMENT

(China Press Correspondence)

Peking, September 20.—Mongolian princes and dukes recently held conferences at Urga to prepare for self-government and drew up a set of regulations, to the effect that industries be in the charge of the Mongolian Government without interference from outside influence.

Reports poured in from General Chang Kwen-chien, Occupation Commissioner Chen Hsia-ling and many others regarding the troubles in Tibet. The Government is reported to have decided on the following measures in dealing with Tibetain Affairs:

1.—To prevent the Tibetains from invading on the Szechuen and Kansu Borders.

2.—To prevent the Tibetians from getting in touch with the Outer Mongolians.

3.—To urge the British Minister to open the conference for the Tibetian affairs and settle all the problems at an early date.

4.—To supply the Chinese troops on the Szechuen Borders with arms and ammunitions so as to give them encouragement.

The measures are suggested by one of the prominent persons in the government, and will soon be submitted to the cabinet for consideration and approval.

Parting Students Are Honored By Educational Body

Six students of the Peking Government University who are going to Europe and America on scholarships donated by Mr. H. Y. Moh, the cotton magnate, were entertained at a reception at the Kiangsu Educational Association yesterday. The students are Loh Chia-lung, Tuan Shih-pang, Kang Pei-ching, Chow Ping-lin, Wang Ching-shih and Kiang Shao-yuan.

The total amount of the six scholarships is $50,000. Speeches were made at the reception by Dr. Huang Yen-Pei, vice-president of the association; Mr. Monlin Chiang, professor of the Government University, who accompanied the students in Shanghai; Mr. Moh and Mr. Shen Hsin-ching, secretary of the association.

Battle In Trenches Before U.S. Court

Echoes of what must have been a night of unusual activity in the Jukong Road district called the Trenches were heard in the American Consular Court yesterday morning when a charge of assault that had been preferred against one Agnes Garza were heard by U. S. Commissioner F. J. Schuhl.

Evidence given in the case indicated that following upon a dispute that arose between feminine habitues of two establishments the trouble spread to two groups of sailors with the result that a bar called the Mascot was partly demolished. At the conclusion of the hearing, in which Mr. Linebarger prosecuted, while Commissioner Schuhl made it apparent that the court strongly disapproved of incidents of the sort, he dismissed the charges.

N.Y. BOXING PROMOTERS AT WITS' END TO FIND SEAT SPACE FOR FANS

Metropolis Goes "Fight Mad" Under New Law—Baseball Field Rented For Carpentier-Levinsky Bout Next Month—Rickard Signs Dempsey

By Dudley Burrows

New York has gone "fight mad" again.

Following the passage of the new State boxing bill, permitting 15-round contests and a decision by a referee and two ringside judges, the pugilistic fans (meaning merely the devotees of pugilism) live only to journey from one arena to another, satisfying their lust for the he-man sport which was denied them for a period of nearly three years.

Enclosed fight auditoriums, with the single exception of Madison Square Garden, are reported to be entirely inadequate for the accommodation of the crowds which turn out to witness even mediocre programs of boxing; while, for the big events, it begins to look as though the entire island of Manhattan would be required to seat the crowds.

Take, for example, the first inring appearance of Georges Carpentier, the romantic French champion, scheduled for October 12th against Battling Levinsky, a sincere but far from spectacular light-heavyweight who has been boxing in and around New York for many years under the careful management of "Dumb Dan" Morgan.

EXPECT MONSTER CROWD

Promoter Jack Curley, of the International Sporting Club, after going over the first batch of correspondence relative to reservations, gave up all idea of attempting to stage the bout in a covered arena and has rented Ebbets Field, the Brooklyn baseball park, for the occasion. It is expected that between 30,000 and 40,000 persons will be at the ringside—or as close as their purses will permit—when the gallant Frenchman and the doughty Hebrew start their quarrel.

"Tex" Rickard, who recently leased Madison Square Garden for two years, has secured the services of Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, for a fifteen-round encounter with either Lew Tendler of Philadelphia or Johnny ("Wop") Dundee, guaranteeing the title-holder the sum of $50,000 win, lose or draw.

It is doubtful whether more than a small percentage of the throng which wants to see this bout will be able to crowd into the Garden, although that structure seats some 10,000 persons and "stands" some 3,000 more if the Fire Chief isn't looking.

DEMPSEY-BRENNAN GO

Rickard has also secured an option on Jack Dempsey's next gladiatorial appearance, now booked for October 20 or 22 against "Knockout" Bill Brennan of Chicago, who boasts a decision over the champion, secured before Dempsey took the title from Jess Willard.

"Tex" had to top an offer from Philadelphia of $125,000 for this match; and it looks as though this would be another case of the promoter wishing his auditorium were ten times larger and the fans wishing they were all millionaires. Ringside seats for this bout, they say, will range from $100 down.

Next will probably come the Dempsey-Wills bout, for which several promoters are now angling. Ever since the knockout of Fred Fulton by the "big smoke" from New Orleans the fans have been clamoring for a sight of Wills and the heavyweight champion in the ring together; which means that the seating capacity of the auditorium in which this contest is staged will have to be enormous.

THE REAL "NOISE"

The real "big noise," however, is the Dempsey-Carpentier shindig, which will probably come off in or around New York in the early spring, providing Carpentier gets over the Levinsky hurdle next month. This looks likely, by the way, for the Frenchman appears to have everything that the Hebrew lacks, including a very powerful knockout wallop.

Dempsey and Carpentier should have no trouble at all in breaking the world's record for gate receipts if a suitable place for the battle can be found: and if, as we mentioned above, Carpentier's record is clear when he toes the scratch.

SHOULD BREAK RECORD

Certain it is that Madison Square Garden, nor any other structure in or around New York would be at all capable of accommodating the fans who will, under the conditions described, gather to see Jack and Georges tear into each other's midriffs. One of the ball parks will undoubtedly be requisitioned and a banner gathering of 100,000 persons or so assemble to see the fun.

How, in the face of such facts and figures, can any individual or group of individuals maintain that boxing, as a sport, should be stricken from the list? It seems absurd.

U.S. Again Best At Olympic Games

With only the Marathon contest and a few minor events yet to be decided, on August 22, the American team at the Antwerp Olympic Games had piled up such a large number of points as to appear absolutely unbeatable.

The score on that date, according to California newspapers just received, was as follows:

STANDING OF NATIONS

United States	179
Sweden	68
England	67
Finland	66
Italy	21
France	20
South Africa	19
Canada	10
Australia	10
Denmark	7
Norway	3
Esthonia	3
Czecho-Slovakia	3
Holland	2
Belgium	1

It is not thought possible that any other nation could, by any chance, overtake the Americans in the few events which remained to be decided. Thus, for the sixth time, the United States walks off with premier honors in the world's greatest athletic carnival.

'Two-Twenty' Added To Police Program

An interesting addition to the athletic events scheduled to feature the big S. M. Police Sports program to be given at the Public Recreation Ground on the 30th of next month, is the 220-yard dash, Shanghai Championship, which has been added by reason of many requests from ambitious furlong speedsters now in this city.

Announcement to this effect was made yesterday afternoon by Sergeant F. A. Treacher, one of the Honorable Secretaries of the committee having the day's entertainment in charge.

Great Britain May Quit Olympiads

London, Aug. 14.—Great Britain will not notify at once the International Olympic Committee of her retirement from future Olympiads, but will delay this action until the next meeting of the British Olympic Council, according to an intimation by Sir Theodora Cook, one of the leading members of the council. He has written a long letter to The London Times on the subject of Great Britain's impending withdrawal, in which he elaborates the reasons for this step.

All challenge cups presented by Great Britain probably will remain in competition forever, says Sir Theodore, as a memorial of the organisation this country created in 1908.

HONGKONG LOSES TO JUNIOR GOLF CLUB BOWLERS

In Contest At Hongkew Park Visitors Are Beaten By Seven Points

BY "SKIP"

Hongkong visited Hongkew Park yesterday afternoon and played the Junior Golf Club four. A very good game transpired, the green being in perfect condition and drawing on both sides. Unfortunately heavy showers of rain spoilt the latter end of the game, but by dodging to the "Hut" and restarting the match was eventually concluded.

This was perhaps unfortunate for our visitors as they could not score after the 17th end, and the Golf Club ran out winners by 7 points. Taking the game all through there was nothing to choose between the teams but Hongkong were decidedly unlucky. The scores were level at the 8th and the 12th ends and it was anybody's game up to the 19th.

For Hongkong Muirhead was particularly good and Simpson was very deadly, the green apparently being to his liking. Pile also led in fine style and Farrell as skip played a great game.

The Junior Golf Club four were very consistent, Kinipple being very good, McAlister and Stormes combined well and a tougher pair it would be hard to find.

One of the peculiar features about the match was the manner in which the rain held off for a considerable time. All around the green it was pouring but for some inexplicable reason kept off the scene of action, until the 15th end, when it made periodical visits and made bowls very difficult.

The teams were:

Hongkong—P. Farrell (skip), J. Muirhead, A. Simpson and A. Pile 12.

Junior Golf Club—G. B. Stormes (skip), D. McAlister, W. R. Kinipple and P. Ephgrave 19.

Hongkong v. Yangtszepoo

Hongkong will play Yangtszepoo at Wayside Park today at 3 p.m.

Hongkong—R. Lapsley (skip), P. Farrell, A. Simpson and J. Muirhead.

Yangtszepoo—G. McMurdo (skip), W. T. Bisset, C. Richards and G. Bloom.

OPEN PAIRS FINAL

The final for the Shanghai Pairs Championship is to be played off on Saturday at the Race Course, Lawn Bowls Club's green at 3 p.m. This match has long been delayed on account of the sickness of Arch. Taylor who is the partner with Fraser Ferrier against R. C. Aitkenhead and G. McMurdo. The game promises to be a hot one especially if Taylor has been able to get back to his form. Both Taylor and Ferrier were the winners last season, defeating Malcolm and Bisset after a great game.

One Of The World's Greatest Sports

I refer to solitude,
A day off every now and then
Apart from all the human brood,
In the heart of some deep glen
Where only winds and shades intrude,
Beyond the thought of worldly gain
Or streets where pallid faces haunt,
Beyond the reach of greed and pain,
Of trickery and fear and want—
Where one can sit and dream a bit
Unravelling some mental twist,
Where no white flame of fame is lit
That lures to disappointment's tryst,
Close to the Mother of the Clan,
The earth, that madmen still defile
With blood and tears through life's brief span,
Where each one has so short a while
To dream of something better than
The endless strife of man and man.

Cleveland Leading Red-Hot Race In American League

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Chicago, September 20.—By virtue of four straight victories over the Philadelphia Athletics, the Chicago White Sox are now firmly entrenched in second place in the American League, one and one-half games separating them from the Cleveland Indians, leaders of the League at this date.

The New York Yankees are trailing along in third place, eleven points behind the Sox. It has been intimated by sports writers here and in the East that the other clubs of the League have been "razzing" the Yanks by sending their top-notch pitchers against them and "laying off" against Cleveland. The charges are being investigated.

(Sports Editor's Note.—The results published in yesterday's paper were those of September 19 and 20 respectively, instead of August, as was erroneously printed.)

National League President Would Have Offenders Sent To "The Pen"

(U. S. Naval Radio)

Chicago, September 20.—President John Heydler, of the National Baseball League, announced here today that he was preparing, in company with presidents of other leagues, to petition Congress to enact legislation making betting on baseball games a penitentiary offense.

The penalty, President Heydler announced, might seem severe; but he is determined, he said, to break up baseball pools and scour from American baseball any stigma that might attach to it by reason of charges recently made here on the Pacific Coast.

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, September 20.—The Grand Jury charged with investigating allegations of gambling at last seasons' world championship baseball series will begin its labors on Wednesday. Ban Johnson, American League president, John Heydler, National League president, William ("Kid") Gleason, Charles Comiskey, William Voeck, Robert Benton and several sport writers have been subpoenaed to attend.

Those who have received subpoenas have expressed their approval of the investigation.

WADE-TANAKA TEAM WINS WAY TO TENNIS FINALS; DARKNESS HALTS OTHERS

Work Of Tanaka And Carnavarro Features Semi-Final Rounds Of 1920 Championship—Title Play Scheduled For Saturday, If Weather Permits

By "Forehand"

Thanks to some exceptionally brilliant tennis, played in the face of threatening weather conditions at the Shanghai Country Club yesterday afternoon, the final bracket of the 1920 doubles championship, Shanghai Lawn Tennis Association, is still—to ascend into the vernacular—"up in the air."

The reason for this is that the match between the teams composed of Messrs. Toussaint and Cannavarro, on the one hand, and Messrs. Pott and Sheldon, on the other, was impossible of completion, overcast weather compelling a postponement after the first-named pair had taken two sets, their opponents one, and four games had been played on the next, to a score of two all.

At the Shanghai Cricket Club the intercating team composed of Messrs. J. L. Wade and J. Tanaka had little or no difficulty in disposing of Messrs. P. H. Kilmanek and H. Middleton in straight sets, 6-3, 6-4, 6-0.

The unfinished match will be played out this afternoon, weather permitting, on the same courts; the winners meeting the Wade-Tanaka combination, in all probability, on Saturday afternoon on the courts of the Shanghai Recreation Club—again providing J. Pluvius does not interfere.

BRILLIANT PLAY

According to Secretary A. H. George, who umpired the match at the Country Club, the second set was productive of some of the best tennis which has been seen in China in many moons.

Messrs. Toussaint and Cannavarro, playing solid, heady tennis, annexed the first set, 6-1, before Mr. Pott and his somewhat temperamental partner could settle into their stride.

This settling, however, took place immediately the second set began. Mr. Sheldon uncorking a magnificent brand of tennis which was irresistible. After a splendid struggle, filled with meteoric rallies and hair-raising smashes in and out the court, Messrs. Sheldon and Pott took the set at 8-6.

A SLOWER SET

The third set found the quartet slightly blown and the sky growing blacker by the minute. This resulted in a slower, steadier match, which eventually went to Messrs. Toussaint and Carnavarro at deuce, 7-5.

The fourth set started bravely, but darkness had begun to settle in earnest when Umpire George called a draw at two games all and sent the tired contestants to the shower baths. All in all, Cannavarro's work throughout was the best of the day.

THE OTHER MATCH

Messrs. Wade and Tanaka had an unexpectedly easy time with Messrs. Middleton and Kilmanek on the courts of the Shanghai Cricket Club. Starting shortly after the sharp thunderstorm had passed, the winning pair slid through the Middleton-Kilmanek defense like eels through pondgrass and quickly annexed the first set of the match, without incident by the convincing score of 6-3.

The second set, played under better sky conditions, was productive of a much better brand of tennis on the part of the losing pair. They held their opponents square and even until the games were three-all, rallying bravely at the net and giving as good as they received in the close-up game.

LOST OPPORTUNITIES

It seemed to the writer that Messrs. Middleton and Kilmanek missed many an opportunity, with their rivals both inside the service-lines, of lobbing their way out of tight places. Instead they contented themselves with a "toe-to-toe" offense, at which they were steadily outmaneuvered, the set going to Messrs. Wade and Tanaka by six games to four.

At that, this second set was tremendously interesting and convinced the writer that the winners will be very hard to beat. Tanaka has an uncanny judgment of placement shots; whereas Wade's terrific forehand and backhand drives from net and back-court alike are deadly point-producers.

The losers put up practically no defense in the third set, which went to Tanaka and Wade—and, with it, the match—by a love score in the record time of 18 minutes.

STORMS OF YOUTH

Storms Of Youth. By Viola Roseboro.' Charles Scribner's Sons.

When Perry Grantley returned to his home in the little town of Wayton, after spending two years in a great Eastern university, his father, old Judge Grantley, feared that it was only to say good-bye and be off again, this time to New York. But during the latter months of his absence Perry had made a "great decision"—he had decided to stay on in Wayton, and fight the town's fast-growing political corruption, urged on thereto less by the precepts than by the example of a certain young professor of economics, one Henry Langley whose outspokenness had cost him his place in the university. At the period in which the story is laid—the time being in those years "before 'muckraking' had flowered and gone to seed"—Wayton was under the control of a cold-blooded, astute "boss" named Daulton, whom none had as yet even tried to oppose. Perry, however, was determined to fight Daulton and all his works, and his father, whose weak heart was the only thing which had prevented him from entering the arena in person, was greatly pleased by his resolve, and promised to back him to the very limit of his financial ability.

Both realised that the one way to succeed in their chosen field lay through the columns of a newspaper; so they secretly bought the old Standard, and prepared to battle for civic righteousness. But while they were still busy making their plans, the feminine element intervened in the persons of no less than three young girls, all of them old friends of Perry's. First there was beautiful Lura Anderson, whom the Judge had long since nicknamed Tura Lura, the loveliest girl anywhere along the river upon whose banks Wayton was situated, and the one at whose shrine all the young men worshipped. So thoroughly accustomed was she to being adored that when she fell in love with Perry it never occurred to her to make even the very smallest attempt to conceal her feelings, and she wooed him in the frankest and most open manner possible. Next came Stella Tillotson, the shallow, half-blind and rather pitiful little intrigante, who had reasons of her own for wanting Perry to marry Lura, and worked toward that end diligently and surreptitiously. And then there was Del Magruder, she of the "big, sweet, balmy brownness and vitality," who had no coquetry, but only an abundance of "open merely human friendliness," and who loved Perry with all her big, generous heart. The net which is woven out of life's little ironies speedily entangles them all. Love and politics, acting and reacting upon one another, make the snarl worse, and many difficulties and sorrows result before the end comes and it is all straightened out.

The book would be a better one if that end were reached a little sooner, for the real climax of the story comes with the dramatic scene of Lura's public defense of Perry. It gives an interesting picture of life in a small town on the border between North and South, with its conflicting interests, its rivalaries, its complexities of generosity and selfishness, of good will and ill feeling forming a frame for the more intimate human drama centering around Porry's love affairs, the intricacies of which are deftly manipulated. Miss Roseboro' is at her best when demonstrating the importance of the seemingly trival incident, the apparently insignificant word spoken or withheld. The novel contains a good many characters, but the author keeps firm hold on each one of them, and their variety helps to give verisimilitude to this tale of love and politics in a small American town.

LIMBO

Limbo. By Aldous Huxley George H. Doran Company.

Aldous Huxley appears to have upset many critics.. Possibly his fault is the same drawback that has aroused energetic protesters against F. Scott Fitzgerald. It is youth. Both these young men are too near the suckling stage to know as much as they do, to be quite so sophisticated in the presence of their ingenuous elders. No comparison is intended between Mr. Huxley and Mr. Fitzgerald, for none is possible. Mr. Huxley is a writer possessing a polished style. The sophisticated cynicism that suggests itself in some of his paragraphs, it is to be suspected, possesses a bark much worse than its bite. In other words, Mr. Huxley is hoaxing us part of the time, and the force of a genuine literary genius carries him along for the rest of the way.

"Limbo" is a book that should arouse a vast amount of interest, for the sketches contained within it are quite as distinctive as anything that has been done in England for several years. The story that opens the book, and which narrates the strange history of a young Englishman who possesses a dual personality, is delightfully written and conceived. Might not this story have fitted fairly well into a remarkable book by another English writer that appeared last season? "Seven Men" is the book in mind.

And here we come to a daring comparison, one that perhaps is premature when one consider just what Aldous Huxley has accomplished. His only other book is one of verse, "Leda and Other Poems." But in lines, sometimes in paragraphs, and in general atmospheric suggestion, there appears to this reviewer a likeness between Mr. Huxley and Max Beerbohm. The incomparable Max, who has strolled his debonair way through the last three decades of English letters, nonchalantly hitting off a cartoon there and an epigram here, is the most finished writer in England today. He is an aristocrat of letters, town bred and town inspired. Hyde Park is written all over him. His first essay in The Yellow Book (that jaundiced ordinamme of the jaded 90s!) was in defense of cosmetics. He was the smart, sophisticated intellectual writer of the day.

Mr. Huxley suggests this at times. He is, of course, a much younger man. He has yet to accomplish very much, indeed, if he ever is to challenge Max on his own ground. But his promise is reassuring. That he has come to stay in English letters surely may be divined from "Limbo."

It is not the intention to imply that Mr. Huxley is at all imitative of Max Beerbohm. He is quite distinct in his own field, but that field is rather similar to Beerbohm's. The style of Mr. Huxley is broader than that of Max at times; it is never quite so finished and quite so delightful. The mental attitude of the two men is dissimilar in many ways. But through them both runs that great streak of urbanity, of sophistication, of what might almost be termed jadedness at times.

The sketches in "Limbo" are fictional, but the reader will feel more behind them than the fiction. An attitude toward life, a gesture that has become sure through a complete acceptance of its own convictions, is implicit in each sketch. At times there is a comprehensive exposition that is broadly symbolical. The sketch called "The Death of Lully" immediately suggests itself at this thought.

"Limbo" is a book of definite promise and of a certain achievement. The reader on finishing it will feel sure of Mr. Huxley as an authentic figure in English letters of the day. Unlike Mr. Fitzgerald, he touches literature in his sketches. A second book of prose by him will be eagerly awaited.

STEEL PREFERRED

Steel Preferred. By Herschel S. Hall. New York: E. P. Dutton and Co.

A good story well told and a vivid picture of the life of a big steel plant are combined in this very readable novel. Its central character appears first as a brown-eyed baby boy a few days old, wrapped up in a dirty blanket and discovered by some workmen in a car of pig iron they are unloading in the steel plant. The foreman of the gang adopts him and the reader follows his development as child, youth and man as he grows up in the physical and spiritual muck and grime of Steelburg, is carried by a fantastic fate from it once into the Far West, comes back to its dirt and smoke and vile odors with joy, and thereafter throws himself with even more ardor into the life and work of this steel-making section of a great industrial city. For him, the place, the work, the life are the most desirable to be found anywhere in the world; for him, it is "steel preferred" above everything else that life can offer, while the reader follows his growth and development pictured against the background of roaring furnaces and belching chimneys and the universal filth and squalor of the town, little by little, with a clue thrown in here and a suggestion made there and a possibility opened a little later, there is unraveled the mystery of his birth and parentage. But not until the very last pages does Wellington Gay, by that time manager of the steel works and the most trusted citizen of Steelburg, know surely who he is.

The author is skillful and plausible in his development of his chief character, showing him plunged from babyhood into all the evil of the vile and squalid town, loving work, almost any kind of work, by reason of his abundant health and spirit and his good-humored acceptance of whatever life offers, and putting his best effort into whatever he attempts. But perhaps the most striking feature of the book is the intimate picture it gives of the life of a great steel plant and the skill with which it touches with individuality every one of the scores of men who are shown working at as many different kinds of jobs in the mills. Mainly it is a story about the world of man, and woman enters but slightly into its unfolding pictures. Nevertheless, it has one very nice girl and one pretty and entirely satisfactory love story.

Lotus Salad

Lotus Salad. By Mildred Cram. Illustrated by F. C. Yohn. New York: Dodd, Mead and Co.

Rollicking, impetuous, as dashing as a runaway automobile, Miss Cram's novel is a story for an hour that might otherwise be idle and bored and which desires only to be amused. It is a Richard-Harding-Davis sort of story, set in a Richard-Harding-Davis kind of scene, and it out-Richard-Harding-Davises the most Richard-Harding-Davis story the incorrigible romanticist ever wrote. It is, in short, Richard-Harding-Davis South American adventure story gone wild and kicking over its paint pots in a welter of hilarious ecstasy. Also it will undoubtedly soon find its predestined haven on a moving-picture screen. Its hero, Pug Fairchild, son of an American business man whose financial interests are much entangled in the mines of Magella, a South American republic of the colorful fiction variety that is not in the least like any real thing under the sun, is sent thither by his father to straighten things out and make the company's properties valuable once more. He is a sort of super-youth, a sublimated, triple distilled, highly concentrated essence of youth, battle bunkering and snorting and capering his way through all obstacles, with his head high and the light of surety of victory in his eyes. He finds plenty to engage his attention and keep even him remarkably busy for a number of months. There is a revolution which has a wily and resourceful leader and there are difficulties seemingly endless in number and variety. But the more there are the more Pug Fairchild enjoys life, and they can't be prepared too swiftly or emciently to suit him. And, of course, there is a girl, and after Signor Pug has won his way through and across and over all the other hurdles he turns his attention to her. But "Lotus Salad" is meant only to serve as an hour's merry entertainment and it is cleverly worked out for that purpose, even if its colors are high and glaring.

SCOTTISH DRYS OPEN CAMPAIGN

Colonel Of Highland Light Infantry Heads Forces Fighting For Prohibition

'PUSSYFOOT' TO AID LATER

Ten Percent Of Population Must Approve Before A Referendum Can Be Held

Glasgow, August 17.—The Scottish national dry campaign was opened in earnest here today and will continue to the end of the year. The thousand voting areas all over Scotland are concerned, though at present 250 voting areas are already dry owing chiefly to the action of the landed proprietors. If 10 percent of the citizens declare for a ballot, that will be taken in due course on three options—no licenses, fewer licenses, or no change.

Today I visited the headquarters of the dry faction, centered in the National Citizens' Council. Telephone bells were ringing all day long, feverish excitement prevailed and stacks of literature and pamphlets were being poured out.

Colonel Kyle of the Highland Light Infantry is field marshal of all the dry forces, and in conversation with him and his aide de camp, Mr. Bennett, I learned the plan of operation.

Colonel Kyle has a battalion of working men as speakers, who already are addressing hundreds of meetings all over Scotland. Supporting them are a few big temperance leaders such as Leif Jones of the United Temperance Alliance, Dr. Henry of the Anti-Saloon League of America and Miss Green, also from the United States.

This, however, the Colonel assured me, is not a "pussyfoot" campaign. Not one penny of money or literature for the Citizens' Council has come from America, he declared. "Pussyfoot" Johnson, however, is coming in October for a big demonstration, but otherwise the Scottish drys are fighting a lone hand.

Special appeals are being made to home life by the drys along the following lines. "For the sake of home, have you ever thought what lurks behind the lure of drink? Women, fight woman's enemy! Vote 'No license.'"

HARD FIGHT ANTICIPATED

Colonel Kyle tells me that the drys' sheet anchor is woman and home. "We have also," he said, "the support of the churches, many industrial magnates and some of the labor forces."

The Colonel is concentrating his forces upon large industrial communities. Places like Inverness and Barrhead are believed to be in line on the dry policy, and five wards of Glasgow's thirty-seven are said to be safe for no license.

"In the test canvass," said the Colonel, "we found one Glasgow street of artisans polling 75 percent dry, but the distillery strongholds further north are difficult to tackle. Whisky dies hard in the Highlands.

"The wets are not going to be obliterated easily. Big sums of money are being spent by the trade in support of the wet policy. They have posters and advertisements, speakers and meetings, and are making use of every available form of propaganda."

One good point has been scored by Colonel Kyle. The wets advertised that a Canadian doctor had been proceeded against for issuing 12,274 whisky prescriptions in eleven days. When he recovered from this staggering statement of the wets' leader, the Colonel got his head statistician to work it out and found that it would take the Canadian sixteen and one-half hours a day at the rate of one a minute, and no stops for meals, to prescribe this number. On challenge, the actual number was discovered to be 1,274, so today the Colonel comes out in big type with "Have you noticed the sudden slump in the Canadian doctor's whisky prescriptions?"

And so it goes merrily on. If Scotland votes with the drys, bars and grocers' licenses will practically be wiped out next April.

REPUBLICANS FOR TAX REVISE IN PLATFORM

Slemp, At National Headquarters, Outlines Special Session Program

INDIANS TO AID HARDING

Cable Tells Of Party Meeting As Ship Approaches Grave Of The Lusitania

Fresh from a conference with Senator Harding at Marion, Ohio, and with Simeon D. Fess, Chairman of the Republican National Congressional Campaign Committee, Representative C. Bascom Slemp of Virginia, a member of the committee, outlined yesterday at Republican National Headquarters the program of tax revision which will be carried through at the extra session of Congress which Senator Harding has announced he will immediately call in the event of his election. The extra session, according to Representative Slemp and Chairman Fess, who indorsed his remarks, will do these things:

"Revise and possibly entirely repeal the excess profits tax. This is the chief cause for the high price of everything today. The manufacturer collects it, the wholesaler collects it, the retailer collects, with the result that the ultimate consumer pays three taxes instead of one.

"Immediately abolish the Government tax on freight and passenger traffic. The public will promptly reap the benefit.

"Immediately increase the tariff schedules, and will thereby not only decrease the tax burden now falling on this country by about two hundred millions, but will protect industries and American labor, which needs protection from low-paid foreign competition.

"Will materially modify the income tax schedules and bring about a very considerable reduction in them."

REPUBLICAN OUTLOOK GOOD

Representative Slemp said he had gone thoroughly into the political situation with Dr. Fess, who has the direction of election activities in behalf of candidates for the lower house of Congress, and the outlook for Republican success was never better.

"There is no question," said Mr. Slemp, "that the drift in Ohio is toward Senator Harding and the Republican ticket generally. Dr. Fess thinks we will gain four Republican Congressmen in Ohio this year and lose none. In Virginia and the South generally the tide is against the National Administration. One of the beneficial effects of the war to the Southern people is the development of independence of thought and sentiment not hitherto known will mean in the coming campaign it is impossible yet to foretell. Undoubtedly there will be a greatly increased Republican vote.

CUT LIVING COST

"Senator Harding will make the greatest possible contribution toward reducing the high cost of living through his announced plan of calling Congress into extra session immediately he is inaugurated."

Before returning to his home, Representative Slemp will have a conference with National Chairman Will H. Hays. Senator Davis Elkins and former Republican State Chairman W. H. Baker, both of West Virginia, were among other callers at Republican headquarters. There will be a Republican State Convention in West Virginia on Aug. 12 to adopt a platform and to select Republican electors. Senator Elkins said his State would give a big majority for Harding and Coolidge.

Thomas L. Sloan, President of the Society of American Indians, who is an American Indian of the Omaha tribe and a lawyer, told Chairman Hays yesterday that thousands of Indians are now voters and that as a class and race they are against the Wilson Administration. Mr. Sloan and other Indian speakers will take the stump for the Republican ticket. On Aug. 9 a group for fifty Indians, representing virtually every Indian tribe in the United States, will call on Senator Harding at Marion and pledge the support of their race in the campaign.

A cable despatch from C. H. Duell at Havre, France, received yesterday at headquarters, read:

Last night on board La France, while in former war zone approaching grave Lusitanian party held meeting. Cox's newspaper stated after Lusitania sinking that Germany had committed no crime against us. Whole ship was represented at meeting, which was enthusiastic and overcrowded and many were forced to stand. American citizens raised $2,050 for Republican National Committee. Harding and Coolidge heartily indorsed.

It was announced that E. I. Bolton, a structural iron worker, who has assisted in organising unions for the iron working trades all over the country and who has been also an organiser of the per diem employes of the Civil Service Association, was temporarily in charge of the Eastern Labor Bureau at Republican headquarters.

Deserters Will Be Honored By Fete

Alsatian Regiment That Quit Germans Beloved By French

Paris, Aug. 14.—Survivors of the famous "handkerchief regiment" will be feted on Sunday near Saint-Blaize, in the Vosges, on the occasion of the sixth anniversary of the surrender by these faithful Frenchmen, who had been mobilised by Germany at the outbreak of the war in 1914. Several of the veterans will be decorated for their heroism.

The organisation was known as the Ninety-ninth Reserve Regiment of the German army, and was composed entirely of Alsatians. The Germans trusted implicity in their professions of loyalty and assigned to them the defense of an important part of the front line. On August 15, 1914, French patrols sighted them and a plan for their wholesale desertion from the German army was quickly drawn up. A French corporal trumpted the signal, whereupon the Ninety-ninth left their trenches with handkerchiefs tied to the barrels of their rifles and joined their French compatriots, cheering and singing parodies on "Deutschland uber Alles." Five hours later they were fighting their onetime German comrades.

The regiment is accursed in Germany, but the French regard it as an example of affection for their fatherland which not even forty-five years of Prussianism could kill.

MODERN DUPLICATORS

TO OPERATE THE "MODERN" DUPLICATOR-PRINTER

You simply make one original with pen or typewriter, using triple strength copying ink or typewriter ribbon, or copying pencil as if it were the only one you wanted, then put that one on the Duplicator—writing side down—rub your hand or leveler over it to smooth it out evenly, allow it to remain on the Duplicator about two minutes and the writing is transferred to the Duplicator. You then take your letter or original writing or drawing off the Duplicator and put on blank sheets of paper, postal cards or cloth, one at a time, and run leveler or hand over same and perfect duplicate copies of the original will be printed. In this way you can print up to 75 duplicate copies from each original in 15 minutes; then when the duplicates begin to show up pale, simply erase the impression from the duplicator with damp sponge, and then if you want more of the same kind of duplicates, put on the first one (the original) that you wrote and repeat as above.

Monopolisers And Unfair Traders

EDITOR'S Note: We wish to direct the special attention of the Consular Body, the Municipal Council, Chinese officials and officials of the various courts to the following article by Mr. Jernigan. The profiteering that is going on in this town cries to high heaven for correction.

BY T. R. JERNIGAN

In Staunton's translation of the "Fundamental Laws of the Penal Code of China" there is a section on monopolisers and unfair traders which reads in part as follows:

"When the parties to the purchase and sale of goods do not amicably agree respecting the terms, if one of them monopolising, or otherwise using undue influence in the market, obliges the other to allow him an exorbitant profit; or if artful speculators in trade, by entering into a private understanding with the commercial agent, and by employing other unwarrantable contrivances, raise the price of their own goods, although of low value, and depress the prices of those of others, although of high value, in all such cases the offending parties shall be severely punished.

"When a trader, observing the nature of the commercial business carried on by his neighbor, continues to suit or manage the disposal or application of his own goods in such a manner as to derange, and incite distrust against the procedings of the others, and thereby draws unfairly a greater proportion of profits to himself than usual, he shall be punished with forty blows.

"The exorbitant profit derived from any of the foregoing unlawful practices, shall, as far as it exceeds a fair proportion, be esteemed a theft, and the offender punished accordingly."

The law against unfair business dealings, whereby the markets are deranged to the serious damage of the public, could hardly be stated with greater precision and comprehension than it is stated in the section above quoted from the Chinese Code.

It appears that many thousand years ago the Chinese had in their midst a class of traders who were disregardful of all interests save their own, and indifferent of all interests save their own, to the sufferings occasioned by their unscrupulous manipulations of markets, and their illegitimate prices. Laws were then as now enacted to prohibit and punish the monopolisers and unfair traders but the character is still alive and flourishing.

At this very port, which is free to the trade of the world, and where everything needed to make life contented should be reasonably within the purchasing power of every industrious daily laborer, the unfair native trader has monopolised the market price of the cereal on which his countrymen mainly depend for food. And this illegal trader is carrying on his profiteering business in the Settlements delineated as the residence of foreigners, and which are governed by foreign laws.

It may be written, that there is not a single foreign nation, officially represented at Shanghai, whose laws are not as stringently prohibitive as the laws referred to in the Chinese Code, and why should anyone be allowed to so organise in the Settlements by using influences in the market as to oblige others to allow him an exorbitant profit?

It is well known that the price demanded for rice is seventeen dollars and fifty cents per picul, which is a price about twice the normal, and utterly beyond the ability of the honest laborer to pay, and yet the consummate rascals, to make money for themselves, coldly turn away from the fact that as many as thirty thousand of their own people are starving for want of rice.

It is also known that during last winter, and even at present, household coal could not be purchased at Shanghai for less than about twenty-four dollars per ton, while at Tientsin household coal could be purchased for about eight dollars per ton. It is supposed that the traders who have monopolised the coal market for more than a year have arranged to continue the monopoly, but there ought to be enough enterprise among foreigners at this port to defeat the purpose of both the rice and coal combinations. The one is as unlawful as the other and no business of an unlawful character should be permitted in the Settlements. The law is plain, and the authorities entrusted by the ratepayers with the Government of Shanghai might show more activity in suppressing what is written in the law codes of all civilised nations as a vice and a crime.

THE NEW BUND ARRANGEMENT

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir.—There's one and only one shady walk along the Bund—the one between two rows of trees. Is it going to be allowed to be used by the Chinese chauffeurs and coolies for parking their automobiles and ricshaws? There's a road just behind that walk where they could park and be out of the way, and let the poor pedestrians, who have to foot it get a little shade. Very truly yours,

PEDESTRIAN.

Sept. 21, 1920.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE

Sir.—It is far from my desire to enter into a controversy; it is only the desire to reply to the question "Can we say to them: 'You shall not go in?' Do we deny them the right of self determination?"

We do not want to say to them, the south and central American republics, now or at any other time that they shall or shall not join a League of Nations but we do say that we reserve to the United States of America the right to adjust any question that comes up under the Monroe Doctrine. And that we will if necessary enforce the Doctrine with our full strength.

Referring to the support given to the Monroe Doctrine by Great Britain, all writers that I have read seem agreed that it was due to Great Britain refusing to join the "Holy Alliance" and to the tacit agreement of Great Britain to the Doctrine that prevented, for many years, European nations from challenging our strength. If the Editor "will go back just a bit more into history" he will find that the Doctrine was challenged prior to the controversy mentioned by him. Austria and France supported Maximillian in Mexico; in fact without French bayonets it is doubtful if he could have landed, at a time when all of our efforts were being put forth to preserve the Union. With this question settled a Republican President brought the Doctrine to Napoleon's attention and the dream was shattered. It might be well to state that at the time that the American army and navy were the most powerful in the world.

President Wilson referring to President Cleveland and the Venezuela controversy with Great Britain states:

"He had exposed a hidden question (even at this early date Mr. Wilson had the germ of open covenants openly arrived at) to the public opinion of two nations, and that opinion had supported him and rebuked Lord Salisbury."

The American people that are opposed to the United States entering the League of Nations are not opposed to the League but are opposed to the terms that they want us to accept. I feel that had President Wilson presented to the Congress a covenant openly arrived at that the terms would have been such as to permit our entering the League; it was only when he determined to thrust us into a league that would nullify all of our traditions that we objected. I believe that the feeling among the American people is such that they will return Mr. Harding in November and I also feel that the Republican Party will present the terms upon which we will enter the League so acceptable that the Nations now in the League will accept them.

Referring to the Democratic Senators supporting Mr. Cox: As good party men they have no other choice but this does not necessarily indicate that they have changed their stand on the question of the League. Very truly yours,

NATHAN O. NOAH.

Note: When the republics of South and Central America voluntarily place themselves under the aegis of the League of Nations, how can we reserve to the United States the right to adjust any question that comes up under the Monroe Doctrine? When they join the league they give that right to the league and take it away from the United States. The League Covenant itself expressly recognises the Monroe Doctrine, but if the United States refuses to join the league, and South and Central America do join it, the simplest reasoning, it seems to us, forces the conclusion that by those actions the Monroe Doctrine will be lost.

As to the other matter, does our correspondent wish us to believe that Great Britain's refusal to join the Holy Alliance was based on her desire to protect us and to uphold the Monroe Doctrine? And the Maximilian incident only proves our contention, previously expressed, that "the American navy, backed by the full manhood and resources of America, is the bulwark of the Monroe Doctrine and none else." And that always has been the case.

This correspondent said the other day in his letter to us: "Admitting that in the past the Monroe Doctrine would have been without force without the support of the British Empire, for which we are grateful" etc. He now seems inclined to wish to demonstrate the truth of those two assertions. Our columns are open to him but we advise him in advance that he will be shouldering a huge and horrendous task.

Mr. Noah is of course entitled to his opinion that the Republicans, if put in power, will be able to reform the present league and make it good enough for the United States to enter. He ignores or forgets the fact that, after the general draft of the Covenant was agreed upon at Paris, President Wilson brought it back to the United States and discussed it freely with both Republican and Democratic senators—with Root, Lodge, Taft and other leaders, who suggested certain changes. The President then went back to Paris and imposed these changes on the rest. Full agreement was reached and the President returned to Washington with the completed document. Then the Republican leaders started to tear it to pieces again. It was only then that the President took his firm stand. The Republican leaders hated Wilson and did not wish him to derive any of the glory that was coming to him for his great leadership. That they hated Wilson more than they loved the League of Nations has been amply demonstrated by their subsequent course.

ONE VIEW OF THE MAINE ELECTION

Editor, THE CHINA PRESS

Sir: Your discussions of the political situation in the U.S.A. are very illuminating and helpful. I thoroughly agree with you, and would like to ask if there is not at least a grain of comfort in the Maine election after all? If this is the first time that the women have voted, would not the normal Republican majority be doubled? In that case a 60,000 majority would mean only a normal 30,000. Yours truly,

Solid South.

WISDOM FROM BOOKS

Aloofness is not good for a common man who was meant to live with his fellows, and who in solitude soon puts on a crust of moroseness. Even the flint which is full of sparks, does not show its ambushed stars unless it has a wrangle with the steel; and so it is with men.

The world is very beautiful, and there is a defect in us because we do not enjoy it as much as it deserves to be enjoyed. Men have sighed for a sixth sense. They only half use the five they have got.

Roosevelt's Acceptance Speech

Hyde Park, N. Y., August 9.—The full text of Franklin D. Roosevelt's speech of acceptance of the Democratic Vice Presidential nomination here this afternoon follows:

Mr. Cummings and ladies and gentlemen of the committee:

I accept the nomination for the office of Vice President with humbleness and with a deep wish to give to our beloved country the best that is in me. No one could receive a higher privilege or opportunity than to be thus associated with men and ideals which I am confident will soon receive the support of the majority of our citizens.

In fact, I could not consciously accept it if I had not come to know by the closest intimacy that he who is our selection for the Presidency, and who is my chief and yours, is a man possessed of ideals which are also mine. He will give to America that kind of leadership which will make us respect him and bring further greatness to our land. In James M. Cox I recognise one who can lead this nation forward in an unhalting march of progress.

Two great problems will confront the next administration; our relations with the world and the pressing need of organised progress at home. The latter includes a systematised and intensified development of our resources and a progressive betterment of our citizenship. These matters will require the guiding hand of a President who can see his country above his party, and who, having a clear vision of things as they are has also the independence, courage and skill to guide us along the road to things as they should be without swerving one footstep at the dictation of narrow partisans who whisper "Party" or of selfish interests that murmur "Profits."

WORLD PROBLEMS

In our world problems we must either shut our eyes, sell our newly built merchant marine to more far-seeing foreign powers, crush utterly by embargo and harassing legislation our foreign trade, close our ports and build an impregnable wall of costly armaments and live, as the Orient used to live, a hermit nation, dreaming of the past; or, we must open our eyes and see that modern civilisation has become so complex and the lives of civilised men so interwoven with the lives of other men in other countries as to make it impossible to be in this world and not of it. We must see that it is impossible to avoid except by monastic seclusion those honorable and intimate foreign relations which the fearful-hearted shudderingly miscall by that devils catchword "international complications."

As for our home problem, we have been awakened by this war into a startled realisation of the archaic shortcomings of our governmental machinery and of the need for the kind of reorganisation which only a clear-thinking business man, experienced in the technicalities of governmental procedure, can carry out. Such a man we have. One who has so successfully reformed the business management of his own great State is obviously capable of doing greater things. This is no time to experiment with men who believe that their party can do no wrong and that what is good for the selfish interests of a political party is of necessity good for the nation as well. I, as a citizen, believe that this year we should choose as President a proved executive. We need to do things; not to talk about them.

Much has been said of late about good Americanism. It is right that it should have been said, and it is right that every chance should be seized to repeat the basic truths underlying our prosperity and our national existence itself. But it would be an unusual and much-to-be-wished-for thing if in the coming presentation of the issues a new note of fairness and generosity could be struck. Littleness, meanness, falsehood, extreme partisanship—these are not in accord with American spirit. I like to think that in this respect also we are moving forward.

Let us be definite. We have passed through a great war—an armed conflict which called forth every effort on the part of the whole population. The war was won by Republicans as well as by Democrats. Men of all parties served in our armed forces. Men and women of all parties served the Government at home. They strived honestly as Americans, not as mere partisans. Republicans and Democrats alike worked in administrative positions, raised Liberty Loans, administered food control, toiled in munitions plants, built ships. The war was brought to a successful conclusion by a glorious common effort—one which in the years to come will be a national pride. I feel very certain that our children will come to regard our participation as memorable for the broad honor and honesty which marked it, for the absence of unfortunate scandal and for the splendid unity of action which extended to every portion of the nation.

BETTER OUTLOOK

It would, therefore, not only serve little purpose, but would conform ill to our high standard, if any person should in the heat of political rivalry seek to manufacture political advantage out of a nationally conducted struggle. We have seen things on too large a scale to listen in this day to trifles or to believe in the adequacy of trifling men.

It is that same vision of the bigger outlook of national and individual life which will, I am sure, lead us to demand that the men who represent us in the affairs of our Government shall be more than politicians or the errand boys of politicians—that they shall subordinate always the individual ambition and the party advantage to the national good. In the long run the true statesman and the honestly forward-looking party will prevail.

Even as the nation entered the war for an ideal, so it has emerged from the war with the determination that the ideal shall not idle. It is idle to pretend that the war declaration of April 6, 1917, was a mere act of self-defense, or that the object of our participation was solely to defeat the military power of the Central Nations of Europe. We knew them, as a nation, even as we know today, that success on land and sea could be but half a victory. The other half is not won yet. To the cry of the French at Verdun: "They shall not pass!" the cheer of our own men in the Argonne: "We shall go through!"—we must add this: "It shall not occur again." This is the positive declaration of our own wills, that the world shall be saved from a repetition of this crime.

To this end the Democratic Party offers a treaty of peace which, to make it a real treaty for a real peace, must include a League of Nations; because this peace treaty, if our best and bravest are not to have died in vain, must be not thinly disguised armistice devised by cynical statesmen to mask their preparations for a renewal of greed-inspired conquests later on. "Peace" must mean peace that will last. A practical, workable, permanent, enforcible kind of a peace that will hold as tightly as the business contracts of the individual. We must indeed be, above all things, business like and practical in this peace treaty making business of ours.

The League of Nations is a practical solution of a practical situation. It is no more perfect than our original Constitution, which has been amended eighteen times and will soon, we hope, be amended the nineteenth, was perfect. It is not anti-national, it is anti-war. No super-nation, binding us to the decisions of its tribunals, is suggested, but the method and machinery by which the opinion of civilisation may become effective against those who seek war is at least within the reach of humanity. Through it we may with nearly every other duly constituted Government in the whole world throw our moral force and our potential power into the scale of peace.

CONSTITUTION SUPREME

That such an object should be contrary to American policy is unthinkable; but if there be any citizen who has honest fears that it may be perverted from its plain intent so as to conflict with our established form of Government, it will be simple to declare to him and to the other nations that the Constitution of the United States is in every way supreme. There must be no equivocation, no vagueness, no doubt in dealing with the people on this issue. The league will not die. An idea does not die which meets the call of the hearts of our mothers.

So too, with peace. War may be "declared," peace cannot. It must be established by mutual consent, by a meeting of the minds of the parties in interest. From the practical point of view alone a peace by resolution of Congress is unworkable. From the point of view of the millions of splendid Americans who served in that whirlwind of war, and of those other millions at home who saw, in our part of the conflict, the splendid hope of days of peace for future generations, a peace by resolution of Congress is an insult and a denial of our national purpose.

Today we are offered a seat at the table of the family of nations to the end that smaller peoples may be truly safe to work out their own destiny, to the end that the sword shall not follow on the heels of the merchant, to the end that the burden of increasing armies and navies shall be lifted from the shoulders of a world already staggering under the weight of taxation. We shall take that place, I say so, because I have faith—faith that this nation has no selfish destiny, faith that our people are looking into the years beyond for better things, and that they are not afraid to do their part.

The fundamental outlook on the associations between this Republic and the other nations can never be very different in character from the principles which one applies to our own purely internal affairs. A man who opposes concrete reforms and improvements in international relations is of necessity a reactionary, or at least a conservative in viewing his home problems.

We can well rejoice in our great land, in our great citizenship brought hither out of many kindreds and tongues, but to fulfill our true destiny we must be glad also for the opportunity for greater service. So much calls to us for action, and the need is so pressing that the slacker of peace is a greater menace than the slacker of war. Progress will come not tarough the talkers but through the doers.

It is for this reason that I am especially happy in the pledges given in the platform of the Democratic Party. That document is definite. It is a solemn pledge that, given the authority, our party will accomplish clear aims.

Among the most pressing of these national needs I place the bettering of our citizenship, the extension of teaching to over 5,000,000 of our population above the age of 10 who are illiterate, the strengthening of our immigration laws to exclude the physically and morally unfit, the improvement of working conditions especially in the congested centers, the extension of communications to make rural life more attractive, the further protection of child life and of women in industry. All of these demand action. If we raise the standard of education, of physical fitness, of moral sense the generations to come will have no difficulty in coping with the problems of material economics.

FOR CO-ORDINATED PLAN

So also with regard to the further development of our natural resources we offer a constructive and definite objective. We begin to appreciate that as a nation we have been wasteful of our opportunities. We need not merely thrift by saving, but thrift by the proper use of what we have at hand. Our efforts in the past have been scattered. It is now time to undertake a well-considered co-ordinated plan of development, so that each year will see progress along definite lines. The days of "pork-barrel" legislation are over. Every dollar of our expenditures for port facilities for inland waterways, for flood control, for the reclamation of swamp and arid lands, for highways, for public buildings, shall be expended only by trained men in accordance with a continuing plan.

The golden rule of the true public servant is to give to his work the same or even higher interest and efficiency that he would give to his private affairs. There is no reason why the effectiveness of the National Government should not at least approximate that of well-conducted private business. Today this is not the case. I may be pardoned if I draw on my experience of over seven years in an administrative position to state unequivocally that the Governmental machinery requires reorganisation. The system, especially since the war, has become antiquated. No mere budget system, much as we need that, will correct the faults.

First of all, the methods of the legislative branch of the National Government, especially in the upper House, require drastic changes. It is safe to say that the procedure of the Congress has progressed less with the times than in any other business body in the country. Yet it is upon the Congress that every executive department must wait. Appeals to the House and Senate in the last session fell on apparently deaf ears.

In the administrative branch also great changes must take place. The functions of the departments should be redistributed along common sense lines and methods provided to standardise and prevent duplication of effort. Further, it is high time that Government employment be placed upon a proper level. Under the safeguard of civil service the salaries must approximate those paid in private employ. Today we are faced with the fact that the majority of the most efficient Government employes leave the service when they are becoming most valuable. The less useful remain. Many millions of dollars could be saved to the taxpayers by reclassification of the service, by the payment of adequate compensation and by the rigid elimination of those who fail to measure up to a high standard. All of this also has been called to the attention of the present Congress without result, and Congress only can authorise the remedy.

It is a particular pleasure to know that if we are sustained by the people in the election, the country will have as its chief executive a man who has already amply established his reputation as a successful administration by the reorganization of the business methods of a great State. He is, an engineer-statesman. The task before the National Government can also be assisted by a sympathetic co-operation between the executive and the legislative branches, and in this work partisanship must not enter.

In the consideration of the needs of the country and the conduct of its affairs I like to dwell particularly on that part of Lincoln's immortal phrase which speaks of "Government for the people." Service on the part of men and women in the Government, is not enough; it must be unselfish service, it must be service with sufficient breadth of view to include the needs and conditions of every kind of citizen, of every section of the land.

Such a body of workers would make impossible a return to the conditions of twenty years ago when men in the halls of Congress and in the executive branches almost openly represented special interests or considered the obtaining of appropriations for their own localities as of more weight than the welfare of the United States as a whole. Such a spirit of unselfishness would prevent also the formation of cliques or oligarchies in the Senate for the retarding of public business.

Some people have been saying of late: "We are tired of progress, we want to go back to where we were before, to go about our own business, to restore 'normal' conditions." They are wrong. This is not the wish of America. We can never go back. The "good old days" are gone past forever; we have no regrets. For our eyes are trained ahead—forward to better new days.

In this faith I am strengthened by the firm belief that the women of this nation, now about to receive the national franchise, will throw their weight into the scale of progress and will be unbound by partisan prejudices and a too narrow outlook on national problems. We cannot anchor our ship of state in this world tempest, nor can we return to the placid harbor of long years ago. We must go forward or founder.

AMERICA'S OPPORTUNITY

America's opportunity is at hand. We can lead the world by a great example, we can prove this nation a living, growing thing, with policies that are adequate to new conditions. In a thousand ways this is our hour of test. The Democratic program offers a larger life for our country, a richer destiny for our people. It is a plan of hope. In these chiefly let it be our aim to build up, not to tear down. Our opposition is to the things which once existed, in order that they may never return. We oppose money in politics, we oppose the private control of national finances, we oppose the treating of human beings as commodities, we oppose the saloon-bossed city, we oppose starvation wages, we oppose rule by groups or cliques. In the same way we oppose a mere period of coma in our national life.

A greater America is our objective. Definite and continuing study shall be made of our industrial, fiscal and social problems. Definite and continuing action shall result therefrom, and neither the study nor the action shall be left to emotional caprice or the opportunism of any groups of men. We need a co-operation of the ablest and the wisest heads in the land, irrespective of their politics,

So we shall grow—sanely, humanly, honorably, happily—conscious at the end that we handed on to those that follow us the knowledge that we have not allowed to grow dim the light of the American spirit brought hither three hundred years ago by the Pilgrim Fathers.

The coming years are laden with significance, and much will depend on the immediate decision of America. This is the time when men and women must determine for themselves wherein our future lies. I took to it for progress. If the establishment of good-will and mutual help among nations, in the ending of wars and the miseries that wars bring, in the extension of honorable commerce, in the international settlement which will make it unnecessary to send again two million of our men across the sea. I look to our future for progress; in better citizenship, in less waste, in fairer remuneration for our labor, in more efficient governing, in higher standards of living.

To this future I dedicate myself, willing, whatever may be the choice of the people, to continue to help as best I am able. It is the faith which is in me that makes me very certain that America will choose the path of progress and set aside the doctrines of despair, the whisperings of cowardice, the narrow road to yesterday. May the Guiding Spirit of our land keep our feet on the broad road that leads to a better tomorrow and give to us strength to carry on.

ABOUT YOUR DAUGHTER

No Longer A Child

If your daughter is pale, complains of weakness and depression, feels tired out after a little exertion; if she tells you of headache or backache, do not disregard these warnings. Your daughter needs help for she is most probably anaemic—that is, bloodless.

Should you notice any of these disturbing signs, lose no time but procure for her Dr. Williams' pink pills, for her unhealthy girlhood is bound to lead to unhealthy womanhood.

What Dr. Williams' pink pills can accomplish is instanced by the case of Miss Eule M. H. Mortier, a young lady school-teacher residing at "Lake Wood," Cinnamon Gardens, Colombo, Ceylon.

"About 8 years ago I was a great sufferer with asthma and was also very anaemic," she said. "I became extremely thin and weak, with a constant tired feeling. My face was pallid; my eyes were sunken in deep dark circles and had a nasty pain behind them.

"So poor was my appetite that it was only a pretence for me to sit at the table at all. I had a hacking cough and a very bad pain in the chest which allowed me to get very little sleep. The asthma caused me difficulty in breathing, particularly at night. Night sweats worried me a great deal and I got into a thoroughly low-spirited and depressed condition.

"After trying various medicines without good result I gave Dr. Williams' pink pills a trial on the advice of my father. These brought about a wonderful improvement. My appetite began to pick up and I could again enjoy my meals. My spirits rose and I regained lost flesh and colour. And as I continued with the treatment the asthma which had troubled me for three years disappeared altogether. I lost my troublesome cough, the pain left my chest, my breathing became regular, the night sweats ceased and I was able once more to enjoy a good night's sleep, awaking in the morning rested and refreshed. I owe my cure to Dr. Williams' pink pills and am always pleased to recommend them to any sufferers I find."

Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people enrich the impoverished blood, and by doing so they repair waste and prevent disease. They give to sickly dropping girls health, brightness, and charm, with colour in the cheeks, sparkling eyes, a light step and high spirits. Let your daughter begin them today; any dealer supplies these pills; or they can be obtained, one bottle for $1:50 six for $8.00, post free, from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai.

Siccawei Weather Reports

21.—The anticyclone has still moved eastward and covers Japan. Three distinct low centers: the one in Kiangsu, the other on the China sea, near the Paracels, the third, more important, between Guam and Yap. Whirls around the centers, variable breezes elsewhere. The day is hot and damp, but rather fine in our Valley. Rain at the Philippines.

22.—Fine and cool morning. The pressure continues to decrease and the breeze to make its veering movement to the South.
